Bride-Elect Honored At Bridge Shower In Orange

A lovely party complimenting Miss Martha Kelsey of Garden Grove, whose marriage to Dr. W. C. Leichtfuss of Orange, will be an event of the near future, was given last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Leichtfuss in Orange. Mrs. Leichtfuss and Mrs. Albert Struck were co-hostesses.

Bridge was the game of the evening, and when tallies were checked it was revealed that Miss Kelsey held high score, Mrs. Vern Barger, second high and Mrs. E. V. Kelsey low. Each was presented with an attractive gift, and in addition to her award, Miss Kelsey received many daintily wrapped packages. The shower-gifts proved to be of miscellaneous nature.

At a late hour refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, coffee and cake with whipped cream were served, with bouquets of spring flowers centering the card tables.

Those present, in addition to the honoree, Miss Kelsey, and her mother, Mrs. W. M. Kelsey, of Garden Grove were Mesdames A. W. Leichtfuss, Walter Leichtfuss, C. O. Field, W. A. Knuth, Orlo Barger, and Alfred Dierker of Orange; Vern Barger of Laguna Beach; D. W. Kelsey, Anaheim, E.V. Kelsey of this city and the hostesses, Mrs. Oscar Leichtfuss and Mrs. Struck.

Recently Organized Circle Meets For Pleasant Affair

Although the Woodmen circle was organized only six weeks ago, already there are 24 members, and Thursday evening's meeting held in the home of Mrs. Grace Hall, 310 East Tenth street, proved especially enjoyable.

The greater part of the evening was devoted to playing bridge and 500, with Mrs. Gladys McDonald scoring high in the latter game and Mrs. Florence Merriman holding high honors at bridge. Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served at a late hour.

During the short business meeting Mrs. Ora Owings was received into the order by a transfer. It was announced that Woodmen of the World will have a convention June 6 in Long Beach, and several members of the circle are planning to attend.

The next meeting of the circle will be held on the evening of May 21, with Miss Wanda Allen in her home at 512 West Second street.

Those present last night, other than the hostess, Mrs. Hall, were Miss Wanda Allen and Mesdames Isabel Garland, Leota Nipp, Jewel Jamieson, Meta Caldwell, Oral Owings, Florence Mackel, Florence Merriman, Alta Nicholson, Rebecca Baier, Gladys McDonald, Gertrude Watts, Lula Wall, Flossie Townsend, Ora Ward and Bertha Thorpe.

Merry Dinner Proves Birthday Surprise To Mrs. Nall

Revolving around a birthday anniversary which Mrs. Hubert Nall chanced to be celebrating yesterday, were the merriest of plans for a pre-dance dinner shared last night by some two score friends of Dr. and Mrs. Nall, who elected to stage the affair in the attractive little Highway Tea Garden on the Santa Ana-Anaheim boulevard as a preliminary to attending the Legion Auxiliary Glee club dance held in Ebell club house.

Mrs. Nall was completely unaware that she was to be the center of the merry group, although she knew all the plans for a dinner party to precede the dance. Indeed when Mrs. Joseph H. Daniger spoke of writing place cards for the affair, Mrs. Nall offered her services, and did the most charming little water-color studies imaginable, so that each place was marked by dainty representations of old-fashioned nosegays.

Tables were arranged in U form with deep yellow gladioluses laid on the white linen in a continuous line of bloom, broken at intervals by bowls of orchid iris and pastel-hued glads. Mrs. Nall was seated at the curve of the U so that she was in the very midst of her friends when the denouement came in a clever little talk by Harold Fish, toastmaster for the evening.

Mr. Fish made "Birthdays" the general subject of his remarks in introducing Merle Hall and Frank L. Humphrey, each of whom spoke briefly but wittily, the former incorporating a clever poem addressed to the honor guest. Mrs. Dean Collver was another who added to the gayety with a birthday poem, while impromptu talks were made by Dr. Nall, and by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yost, who were introduced as special celebrants also since it was their wedding anniversary, and by various others of the guests present.

The final surprise of the evening came when a beautifully decorated birthday cake planned by Dr. Nall, was placed before the honor guest. She cut the first slice from the cake, then called Mrs. Yost to cut the next piece in honor of her wedding date, after which the cake was served with the sweets course of the dinner.

For the remainder of the evening, the merry group joined the crowd at the Ebell clubhouse to enjoy the hospitality of the Legion Auxiliary Glee club. In the party in addition to Dr. and Mrs. Nall, Mr. and Mrs. Daniger and Mr. and Mrs. Yost, were Messrs. and Mesdames Rex Kennedy, Walter O. Hill, Dean Collver, Henry S. Williams, Sidney Lowry, Charles F. Hyde jr., Harry Le Bard, Harold Segerstrom, Edwin T. McFadden, Merle Hall, Francis Hill, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wade; Miss June Spray, Miss Norma Overson, Miss Ruth Garner, Miss Ethel Ellis, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Messrs. Frank Curren, Frank Andrews, Frederick Elliott, Frank Humphrey and Harold Fish.

Surprise Party Given In Celebration of Two Birthdays

In observance of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Etta B. Sweet of this city, and Miss Trena Johnson of La Mirada, was a pleasant afternoon shared by a group of friends Wednesday in the home of Mrs. W. C. Dunlap, 2143 North Main street. Bouquets of purple larkspur and coreopsis, and a basket of white June lilies decked the living rooms. Sewing and conversation occupied the afternoon hours.

The climax of the happy affair came with the refreshment hour. Card tables, spread with glossy linens, were attractive with bud vases of pink carnations and green nut baskets. Included in the two-course menu was a beautiful birthday cake iced in white with the names of the two honorees written in pink across the top. Numerous pretty cards and gifts were showered on Mrs. Sweet and Miss Johnson, to whom the party was a complete surprise.

Those present, other than the hostess and the two honor guests, were Mrs. Charles Tibbetts, Mrs. B. M. Crawford, Mrs. Alfred Simmons, Mrs. Ben Dolbee, Mrs. Glenn Breeding and Mrs. Anna Johnson, Santa Ana.

Another happy surprise was in store for Mrs. Sweet, for when Mrs. Dunlap took her to her home at 417 Vance street, following the afternoon's party, they found that Mrs. Sweet's daughter, Mrs. Harry LeBard, had entered her mother's home had had a delicious dinner all ready to serve. Covers were laid for the honoree, Mrs. Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunlap and son and daughter, John and Ruth Ellen; Mr. and Mrs. Harry LeBard and small son, Harlo.

Miss Norma Tatlinger

Mrs. Evan Lewis

Mrs. John te Groen

A bride of late April, Mrs. Evan Lewis was formerly Miss Helen Field, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Field of La Habra, and very popular in college circles of the Southland. She graduated from Whittier high school, later attending Fullerton junior college, Whittier college and Mills college. Mr. Lewis is radio manager of the Southern Sierras Power company, and he and his bride will make their home in Bishop.

Prominent in all activities of Tustin Union high school, Miss Norma Tantlinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Tantlinger of Tustin, had her latest success as a Thespian when she played the feminine lead in the annual school play, "The Lion and the Mouse." She is one of the most popular members of the senior class; is feature editor of the school paper, "The Broadcaster;" editor-in-chief of the annual, "The Audion;" forensic manager for the student body; a member of the Dramatic club, and active in athletics.

One of the charming Easter brides was Mrs. Marion Henry, formerly Miss Frances Wickersheim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Wickersheim, 210 South Broadway, Santa Ana. The marriage took place on Easter Sunday in the First Christian church, and Mrs. Henry is pictured in the graceful gown in which she took her wedding vows. A month's honeymoon in the north including Vancouver and other Canadian points of interest, is the pleasant experience which the young people now are enjoying, and upon their return they will make their home on North Helena street, Anaheim.

Pleasantly established in a cozy home at 1433 Cypress avenue, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Baxter are receiving congratulations of their friends on their romantic April wedding in Yuma, Ariz. Mrs. Baxter was Miss Mina Harlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Harlin of West Camille street, and news of the marriage was told in original fashion at a post-nuptial party given by Mrs. Harlin to a group of her daughter's close friends. Mr. Baxter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Baxter of Brown street and is an employe of the Irvine company.

Costa Mesa friends of Mrs. John te Groen, the former Miss Nina Mae Middleton, are to relinquish the popular young bride to Los Angeles, for she and her husband are to make their home in that city where Mr. te Groen is an orchestra director. Their marriage was an event of May 5, in the Costa Mesa home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Middleton. Mrs. te Groen is a graduate of Santa Ana high school and took her college work at Pomona. Prior to her marriage she was secretary to the advertising manager of a leading Los Angeles radio station.

Surprise Luncheon Held In Riley Home

A delightful surprise covered dish luncheon was held recently in the home of Mrs. Alphon Riley near Santa Ana.

The afternoon was spent in doing fancy work and as an enjoyable conclusion delicious home made ice cream was served.

Attending the surprise luncheon were Mrs. Lottie Mundell of Orange, Mrs. Ora Graham and son Rodger Dean, and Mrs. Della Crane of Springdale, Mrs. Flotele Gisler of Huntington Beach, Mrs. Mary Gisler of Greenville, Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill of Newport Heights, Mrs. Opal Presson and two children, Esther Mae and Ralph, Mrs. Esther Riley and Huntington Beach, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mills and aunt of Long Beach and the hostess Mrs. Riley.

Hostess Compliments Husband at Pretty Dinner Party

Mrs. Guy Park entertained at a charming little dinner party this past week, honoring the birthday anniversary of her husband. The affair was held in their home at 615 West Walnut street, and Mr. Park was thoroughly surprised when the little group of guests arrived to shower him with gifts and birthday greetings.

The hostess served a tempting dinner at the beginning of the evening, with a wealth of spring flowers adding their colorful note to the attractions of the rooms. Guest enjoyed attending the program of Spanish music given at the high school in celebration of National Music week.

Those present included the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Park, Mrs. Frank Frankenberg, of Pueblo, Colo., who is visiting in the Park home, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hodges of Los Alamitos.

Ebell Members Spend Pleasant Day at Laguna Beach

Joining in hospitable plans for a day at Laguna Beach with members of the Fourth Household Economics section of Ebell society, Mrs. W. W. Kays, Mrs. R. E. Coulter and Mrs. F. E. Moore were hostesses yesterday, first escorting their guests to La Casa del Camina for luncheon.

The most delightful plans had been made for their entertainment at this attractive roadside inn, and the members all enjoyed the hospitality of the big lounge with its cheerful furnishings as well as the delectable three-course luncheon menu served at flower-adorned tables.

Arrangements had been made for an afternoon in the Laguna Beach Art gallery, where the current exhibit of paintings by well-known artists aroused a world of interest.

Those making the trip, other than Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Kays were Mesdames James Tarpley, E. U. Dickinson, Edward C. Erwin, M. C. Williams, George Goodwin, J. B. Kester, Oliver H. Umberham, Herbert Krahling, T. F. Ham, Walter Hiskey, Cyrus Lurker, Norbert Lentz, S. I. Preble, George Richardson, R. W. Bales, R. E. McBurney and Miss Mary Thompson.

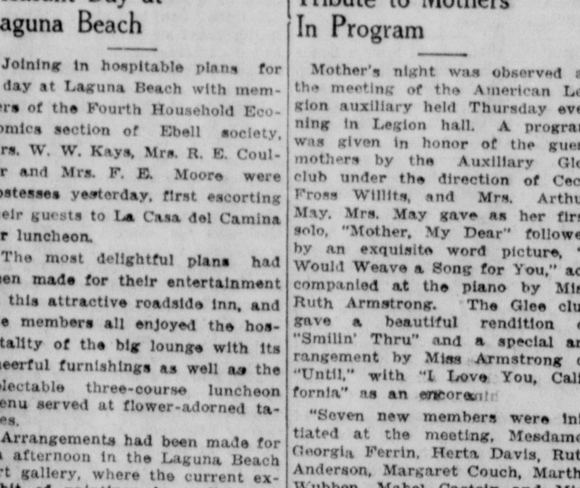

Legion Auxiliary Pays Tribute to Mothers In Program

Mother's night was observed at the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary held Thursday evening in Legion hall. A program was given in honor of the guest mothers by the Auxiliary Glee club under the direction of Cecil Fross Willits, and Mrs. Arthur May. Mrs. May gave as her first solo, "Mother, My Dear" followed by an exquisite word picture, "I Would Weave a Song for You," accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong. The Glee club gave a beautiful rendition of "Smilin' Thru" and a special arrangement by Miss Armstrong of "Until," with "I Love You, California" as an encore.

"Seven new members were initiated at the meeting, Mesdames Georgia Ferrin, Herta Davis, Ruth Anderson, Margaret Couch, Martha Wubben, Mabel Casteix and Miss Margaret Couch. Following the initiation ceremony Mrs. Dean Collver introduced Mrs. Leroy Bailey, state membership chairman for the auxiliary who responded with a short speech.

Refreshments were served after adjournment. The auxiliary will serve dinner to the men of the American Legion post at their next meeting, when the latter organization will celebrate Mother's day with appropriate ceremonies.

Walker Home Is Scene Of Pretty Luncheon And Bridge Party

Presiding at a luncheon a springtime charm, Mrs. Charles E. Walker and her attractive young daughter-in-law, Mrs. Victor Walker, yesterday entertained a group of friends in the home of the former, 514 West Fourth street.

The gardens of the home yielded many lovely flowers in the chosen colors of yellow and orange, and to these were added other blossoms sent by interested friends including Mrs. George R. Wells and Mrs. Fred Newcomb jr., until the whole home was fragrant with their sunny petals. Scotch broom, calendulas, cosmos and snapdragons were some of the varieties used, and blossoms gracing the luncheon tables ran the gamut of the yellow color scale from pale ivory to glowing orange.

In the bridge contest of the afternoon, Mrs. C. M. McCain scored high and Mrs. Ernest Winbigler, second high. The flower note again was apparent in the prizes, for the hostesses had chosen artistic flower bowls in brilliant Czecho-Slovakian ware.

Guests invited to share the hospitality of Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Victor Walker, were Mrs. Robert Mize, Mrs. Harry Westover, Mrs. Tarver Montgomery, Mrs. A. B. Rousselle, Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mrs. Loyal K. King, Mrs. Ernest Winbigler, Mrs. Maurice Enderle, Mrs. Bruce Switzler, Miss Gertrude Montgomery, Miss Louise Montgomery, Mrs. Horace J. Howard, Mrs. George Wells, Mrs. Fred Newcomb jr., Mrs. Theo. A. Winbigler, Mrs. C. M. McCain, Mrs. Gus Barnes of Anaheim, and Mrs. R. R. Miller.

Santa Ana Writer Is Represented In Magazines

Santa Ana subscribers to the "Stepladder," a western magazine devoted to verse, were quite interested to find that the current issue of the publication includes a poem by Mrs. Harwood Sharp, who as Gazelle Stevens Sharp, has written so much graceful verse.

Mrs. Sharp had not received her copy of the magazine early this week when Ebell's Modern Poetry section met with Miss Beulah May, so was agreeably surprised when Mis May read the poem from her own copy, to the pleasure of the assembled section members.

Another poem by Mrs. Sharp appears in the May issue of "The Country Bard."

Mrs. Esser Hostess

The home of Mrs. J. L. Esser was the hospitable gathering place Thursday for the Jolly Dozen Card club which was holding its second meeting since its organization. The usual pot-luck luncheon was served at noon and the afternoon was spent playing cards, with the winners Mrs. Moore, receiving a lovely china teapot as first prize and Mrs. E. A. Holly a china pitcher as second prize.

The women present were Mrs. Glenn Wells, Mrs. D. Everette Hall, Mrs. Maurice Price, Mrs. Ray Schureman, Mrs. J. L. Esser, Mrs. W. A. Millholland, Mrs. B. L. Kirkham, Mrs. Robert Hazard, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. William Schmidt, Mrs. Fred Basse, Mrs. E. A. Holly, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Schmidt substituted in place of Mrs. N. A. Nelson and Mrs. S. A. Miller, members who could not be present.

The next meeting of the club, June 4, will be held in the home of Mrs. D. Everette Hall, at 605 Parton street, Santa Ana.

Success Attends Plan For Auxiliary Glee Club Dance

There were approximately 100 couples to share the pleasures of the evening of dancing planned by Legion Auxiliary Glee club members as a means of adding to their travel fund, and given last night in Ebell clubhouse. And there were approximately 100 couples to declare that it was one of the pleasantest evenings they had experienced for a long time, so admirably blent were hospitality, informality intriguing music and an ideal night for dancing.

Mrs. Andrew Lykke, general chairman of the committees in charge of the affair, was congratulated upon the success attending all her plans. She had various members of the Glee club on duty throughout the evening, some extending friendly greeting at the door, others presiding over the punch bowl, etc.

The Morgan orchestra played a succession of one steps and fox trots varied by an occasional dreamy waltz, and "all went merry as a marriage bell." One of the outstanding features of the evening was the intermission in dancing when members of the hostess organization grouped themselves on the stage of the peacock room and with Miss Ruth Armstrong at the piano and Cecyl Fross Willits directing, sang two numbers. They chose "Until," which was Miss Armstrong's own arrangement of the pretty love song, and "Dinah," with Mrs. Willits taking the solo part in the latter.

Funds from the dance will be used to pay the expenses of the Glee club to the state convention there to enter into competition with other auxiliary choruses for the state championship now held by the Santa Ana group.

Friendly Group Shares Birthday Party With Mrs. Emerson

With the approach of May 8 each year, close friends of Mrs. Mary Emerson, 810 Riverside avenue, begin to anticipate the birthday party at which Mrs. Emerson, or "Aunt Mary" as she is so widely known, always celebrates the anniversary of her natal day.

Yesterday the celebration took the form of a very enjoyable luncheon for a small group of guests in Rose Arbor inn, followed by an informal afternoon in the home to which a larger guest group was invited. Invitations to the luncheon were extended Mrs. Perry F. Schrock, Mrs. Sallie Powell, Mrs. W. H. Crose, Mrs. Hattie B. Kimball, Mrs. John W. Kimball, Mrs. Sidney Kimball, Mrs. M. K. Flint, Mrs. Clara E. Woodhouse, Mrs. William I. Fowler and Mrs. Emmett Elliott.

One of the small private dining rooms at the Rose Arbor was reserved for the party, and Mrs. Emerson was seated at the head of the table where the delectable fried chicken menu was served. Mrs. Schrock prefaced the meal with a touchingly reverent invocation in which the long associations of those present with their hostess, was touched upon, and the cheer and happiness which she brings into the lives of her friends.

Returning to Mrs. Emerson's home, the group was increased by the arrival of Mrs. Martin Taylor, Mrs. C. F. Crose, Mrs. Fred Cullison and other close friends, who shared the conversation and the prettily decorated birthday cake which was served with ice cream. Mrs. Emerson then had the pleasure of reading the many cards and notes sent her by her friends, enjoying the lovely flowers which had come in tribute to her, and opening a number of little gifts sent in honor of the day.

Federation Board Has Valuable Sessions In Buena Park

A pageant portraying the early history of California with characters representing the Indians, early settlers, Spanish settlers and gold miners, was presented as a feature of the program given at the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs executive board meeting in the Buena Park Congregational church, Thursday, Mrs. M. O. Wells, county chairman of history and landmarks directed the pageant.

Spanish songs in costume by Mrs. Leah Pederson of Anaheim included "La Paloma," "Loco Loca" and "Cielito Lindo." Mrs. Walter Ross of Anaheim, county chairman of music, presented the program.

Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim was installed as president of the county federation, by Mrs. J. S. Thurston, of Laguna Beach, outgoing president, who in a poem told of the ideals and aims of motherhood and womanhood. Mrs. Smith accepted her position with a short talk on the responsibilities of the position with a preview of the economic and social questions of the day, advocating a policy of "sticking to the middle of the road" until sufficient knowledge was gained on the subject in question to take a definite stand. She particularly stressed the position of women with respect to current economic forces.

Officers installed with Mrs. Smith were Mrs. S. W. Stanley of the Santa Ana Ebell club, vice-president; Mrs. A. H. Koch of the Fullerton Woman's club, recording secretary; Mrs. Arthur Staley of the Placentia Round Table, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. H. Garfield of the Newport Beach Ebell club, treasurer; Mrs. A. H. Washburn of the Seal Beach Woman's club, auditor, and Mrs. J. S. Thurston, parliamentarian.

Outgoing officers were Mrs. Thurston, president; Mrs. E. E. Smith, Anaheim, vice president; Mrs. W. Whitehead of Santa Ana, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. G. Knox of Santa Ana, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry E. Warren of Buena Park, treasurer; Mrs. James Cracken of Garden Grove, auditor, and Mrs. Albert Launer of Fullerton, parliamentarian.

Reports of the recent state convention at Fresno featured the morning session, Mrs. Stanley opening the discussion with her impressions of the day at the convention when the plans for redistricting the state and the reorganization of the state board were taken up.

Other reports were given by Mrs. George Lewis of Garden Grave; Mrs. H. Shellhouse of Newport Beach; Mrs. Mary Block of Costa Mesa; Mrs. Arch Edwards of Fullerton; Mrs. Thomas McFadden of Placentia; Mrs. Arthur Staley of Placentia; Mrs. Louis Jacobsen of Placentia; Mrs. Anna Brookhouser of La Habra; Mrs. Harpster of Anaheim; Mrs. James Randall of Laguna Beach and Mrs. Nellie Terry of Anaheim.

Mrs. Thurston in her president's report, told of the purchase of a $90,000 redwood grove, discussions of the unemployment question and water conservation and Representative Phil Swing's speech on "California in the Next 25 Years." Also of the progress in junior club work and the awarding of junior scholarships.

Mrs. Albert Launer of Fullerton conducted an open forum with discussion on the water conservation problem. A period of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Frank Champion, past president of the Laguna Beach club, who has died since the last executive board meeting in February in Garden Grove. Mrs. Nellie Terry, president of Las Amigas club of Anaheim announced that decision had been made to join the general, state, district and county federations as a tribute to the new president, Mrs. Smith.

Luncheon was served in the social hall during the noon hour by members of the Ladies' Aid society to over 60 guests. The next meeting of the executive board will be held in Seal Beach in June.

Beach Party Concludes Series of College Social Events

Concluding a series of varied social events held throughout the past school year, the L'Hotel de Rambouillet French club of Santa Ana junior college enjoyed a plunge and beach party yesterday afternoon at Huntington Beach.

The score of "frenchies" gathered at the college after classes were finished and motored in a body to the Huntington Beach plunge for several hours of swimming. Some of the bathers also entered the surf for a short time. After tiring of the water sports, the party journeyed down the coast to a spot near the Santa Ana river where a roaring bonfire had been built.

A delightful picnic supper was served under the direction of Miss Lelia Watson, club advisor, with the assistance of the girl members of the club. Following the meal, marshmallows were roasted and many French songs and rounds sung. The singing was concluded by the Marseillaise, national anthem of France. Miss Evelyn Parks, president, was in charge of the entertainment.

The principal game was especially amusing, being acted and spoken entirely in French. Each person was obliged to take the name of some famous character in history or literature and by words and actions, represent this personage. Among those portrayed were Marie Antoinette, Al Smith, The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe, Bluebeard, Sleeping Beauty, Romeo, Paul Revere and his horse, Santa Claus, Alfonso XIII, Pyramus and Thisbe, Henry Longfellow, Elaine, William Tell and his son, and a scene from the Merchant of Venice.

Those present included the Misses Evelyn Parks, Ruth Brubaker, Marie Moog, Velma Bishop, Rosalind Schilling, Caroline Haughton, Corinne Lecrivain, Helen Campbell, Joy McPhee, Aileen Adams and Lella Watson, advisor, and Messrs. Julien Lecrivain, Glenn Hardin, Bill Reinhardt, John "Sky" Dunlap, Lawrence Haupert, Harry Motley, Art Jacques, Walter Wilson and Leonard Morris.

ANN MEREDITH'S

A Household Miscellany

Do you know that—

A handful of currants or seedless raisins added to a cooking pot roast adds much to the flavor. Leave them in the gravy, which should not be quite as thick as ordinary brown gravy.

A bay leaf crumbled and used for seasoning in a roast of pork or sauted veal steak gives to these meats "that different flavor."

A considerable amount of the raw starch may be taken from peeled potatoes by soaking them for an hour in ice water. This reduces their fat-making propensities.

Delicious hot sandwiches for the midnight snack can be made by cooking a minced onion (small) in a little butter. When nearly done stir in a can of deviled ham, then three well-beaten eggs, salt and pepper. Cook and stir until the eggs are creamy, then spread between thin slices of buttered bread.

A thin cake of sausage meat wrapped around a big oyster, then quickly fried in butter, is a new and delicious wrinkle in sausages.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cheese Sauce

For asparagus and other purposes.

2 tablespoons melted butter
1 tablespoon flour
2 cups milk
1 cup grated tangy cheese
2 egg yolks mixed with juice of ½ lemon
Salt, paprika and cayenne

When I make this sauce I usually make more than will be needed for one meal. It can be heated up by placing the sauce over hot water, or spread over layers of sliced cooked potato, topped with buttered crumbs, you have au gratin potatoes of rare excellence.

• • •

Blend butter and flour and melt. Add the cold milk and stir until cooked to a thin sauce. Add the grated cheese, lower the flame and stir until melted. Place the sauce over hot water while the egg yolks and lemon juice are beaten together. Stir the yolks into the sauce and keep stirring until the yolks make the sauce slightly thicker, then taste and season, and draw the double boiler off the fire. Whip the sauce before serving.

• • •

There are close to 1200 calories in this sauce. A tablespoonful is worth 30 calories, most of which are proteins, obtained from the cheese and milk.

Interesting Meeting Held By Recently Formed Group

The hospitality of the Dr. John Ball home, 2308 Oakmont street, was shared yesterday afternoon by members of the Modern Literature section, a newly-organized group of Ebell society.

The main feature of the day was the review of "R. V. R." by Henry W. Van Loon, given in her usual manner by Mrs. John Tessmann. During the business meeting, presided over by the leader, Mrs. John Ball, the membership was limited to 25 members.

In the pleasant interval between program and tea hour, guests enjoyed a tour of the lovely gardens to the rear of the home. Returning indoors, dainty refreshments were served, with Dr. Margarete Baker and Mrs. Hugh J. Lowe assisting the hostess. The table was prettily appointed and brightened with spring flowers from the home gardens.

Among those present were two new members, Mrs. J. D. Watkins and Mrs. C. M. McClintock. Other members present were Mrs. Ball, the hostess, Mesdames E. T. McFadden, Hugh J. Lowe, C. M. Featherley, Harold Segerstrom, Robert Korff, James Blee, John Backus, Dr. Margarete Baker, and a special guest, Mrs. A. L. Helberg.

The next meeting will be held June 12 with Mrs. Lowe, 806 South Birch street.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Missionary Banquet

Nearly 100 mothers and daughters gathered in the social rooms of the United Brethren church for the annual banquet held this week under the auspices of the Women's and Girls' Missionary societies.

Pep songs were sung at intervals during the dinner hour. The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Robert Emerson and Mrs. O. C. Dennie. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Emerson, with Mrs. W. O. Sidnam, president of the W. M. A., leading in the opening prayer. Charlotte Colby gave two paino solos.

Edgar Guest's "Mothers' Day" was read by Naomi Dennie, Mrs. Edward Roman sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Sleepy Hollow Tune." June Morgan followed with a reading, "My Mother." Girls of the Otterbein Guild gave an effective dramatization, "The Other Mary." Miss Todd, who is at present holding a series of revival services in the church, was speaker of the evening, giving a beautiful tribute to "Womanhood, Motherhood and Daughterhood."

In a short talk Mrs. Sidnam gave a tribute to those who had taken part in the evening's entertainment, and told something of the future plans of the two missionary societies. The program was concluded when mothers and daughters joined in singing "Faith of Our Mothers." The Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the church, closed the meeting with prayer.

MUSIC-LITERATURE-ART

INGOR STRAVINSKY

By RUTH ANDREWS

Part I

Perhaps the most prominent figure in contemporary Russian music is Igor Stravinsky, another of the modern triumvirate of "anarchist" composers, to which category Schonberg and Scriabin belong.

It has been said of Stravinsky that more than any other living composer he embodies the artistic ideals of the present age. His work is the acme of modernism. Indeed, to quote that famous critic, Paul Rosenfeld: "Stravinsky's temperament has been called into being by the modern way of life. Here is the whole mad phantasmagoria of the modern city."

It is probably because of his unique ability at expressing the thoughts and feelings peculiar to contemporary life that Stravinsky enjoys such a wide vogue, a type of popularity that is never accorded the composer who is ahead of his time; a type of popularity that is the prize of him who is able to vividly interpret his environment, and the conditions characterizing it. Whether such popularity will endure, in Stravinsky's case, time alone will prove.

Stravinsky was born at Oranienbaum, near Petrograd, Russia, on June 5, 1882. It is interesting to note that he came of musical ancestry. He was the son of Fedor Stravinsky, a celebrated bass singer of the Imperial theater in the St. Petersburg of the czars during the pre-revolutionary regime.

In common with so many other eminent composers, Stravinsky displayed considerable musical talent during his childhood, especially in the field of piano, to which he devoted long hours of ardent study. However, his parents had hoped for a legal career for him, and until he was 20 he looked forward to such a career.

In 1902, during his 20th year, however, Stravinsky met Rimsky-Korsakoff, the celebrated Russian genius of orchestration. This event marked a turning point in the life of the younger man. He abandoned the study of law to devote his time to the study of musical composition with Rimsky-Korsakoff, and made considerable progress, though pupil and teacher spent many a stormy session when their views on certain subjects clashed.

Indeed, Rimsky-Korsakoff did not feel that Stravinsky was destined for a very shining future as a composer and after several years of study the connection was severed in 1906 and Stravinsky boldly set forth upon his chosen career, undaunted. His first work, a symphony, was written when he was 25.. This was followed by a vocal suite, with orchestral accompaniment, suggested to Stravinsky by a poem of the Russian poet, Pushkin, entitled "Faun and Shepherdess."

A year or so later, in 1908, Stravinsky brought out his "Scherzo Fantastique" for orchestra, suggested by the Belgian symbolist, Maurice Maeterlinck's "Life of the Bee." This work was quite unique and attracted the attention of no less a personage than Sergei Diaghilew, the great master of Russian ballet. Stravinsky was commissioned to compose a ballet for the use of the Imperial ensemble. In response he set to work upon "The Firebird," which was to bring him immediate popularity.

During the year or two that intervened before completion of "The Firebird" Stravinsky also composed a symphonic fantasia, "Fireworks," and a funeral song commemorating the death of his former teacher, Rimsky-Korsakoff. Several piano studies of marked individuality also belonged to this early period, as did several songs.

The year 1909 was to open an important creative period for Stravinsky, in which his style took on a more definite maturity. Now 27 years of age, the young composer wrote an opera-ballet, "La Rossignol," based on the familiar fairy tale of Hans Andersen, "The-Nightingale."

This was followed by the production in Paris of the ballet previously mentioned, "The Firebird," a charming and individual work, which became immensely favored. The definitely anarchistic tendency that marks his more recent work had not then become very evident. Instead, "The Firebird" hints at the influence of Stravinsky's old master, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and his own vivid orchestral work, "Coq d'Or."

During a period of time spent in Rome the following year, Stravinsky brought to completion another ballet, "Petrouschka," valued especially for its quality of spontaneous, ironic humor, also winning at once great popularity with the public. This work has been termed an "ideal ballet," combining an originality of treatment with a spicy kind of musical satire. As in its predecessor, "The Firebird," "Petrouschka" gave ample proof of Stravinsky's excellent technical equipment as a composer.

CURRENT MUSIC NEWS

SANTA ANA

Announce Treble Clef Banquet

Next Tuesday evening, May 12, will mark the third banquet and installation of incoming officers to be held by the Treble Clef club, popular ladies' choral organization of this section, which is directed by William Clare Hall. The event will be held in Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse and will be attended by honor guests prominent in Southern California musical circles, in addition to club members and their own invited guests.

The election of new club officers for the 1931-32 season was to be held tonight, May 9, and at this time a new board of directors will also be elected, all of whom will be installed in office at the banquet next Tuesday evening.

Miss Ethel Coffman is outgoing president of the choral ensemble, which includes more than 50 members, while the board of directors includes Edna Bichan, Lorene Hanson, Mrs. Charles Hurd and Mrs. James Tarpley.

Honor guests at Tuesday night's event will include D. C. Cianfoni, founder and business advisor of the choral group and also director of the Orange County Philharmonic orchestra and Santa Ana Municipal band; also Glenn M. Tindall, general manager of the Hollywood Bowl association, and prominent in Los Angeles playground activities.

Special musical features will be an additional attraction of the program that has been arranged.

The Treble Clef club's most recent public appearance was on Tuesday, night, May 5, in connection with the nightly programs of the Music Week Festival which has been staged in this community during the past week. During recent months the ensemble has frequently appeared on concert programs in connection with the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra and Municipal band, as well as in an entire concert program last March.

Activities of the club will be suspended during the summer months, with rehearsals to be resumed in September, under Mr. Hall's direction.

LONG BEACH

Present "Prince of Pilsen"

The well-known musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," will be presented by the combined music departments of the Long Beach junior college and Woodrow Wilson high school of Long Beach next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, May 14, 15 and 16.

The production will be staged under the direction of Miss Charlotte Brecht, instructor in music in Long Beach junior college.

Departments of art, physical education and commerce will assist the musical department of the Long Beach schools in the presentation, which will include a cast of more than 115 persons. Orchestra music will be provided by combined school orchestras of Long Beach, under direction of George C. Moore.

SANTA BARBARA

To Found High School Orchestra Camp

Plans are being made to establish a summer high school orchestral camp near Santa Barbara, similar to the National High School Band and Orchestral Camp held each summer at Interlochen, Mich., where hundreds of students of high school age, from all over the country, gather each summer for recreation, music study, ensemble practice and concert performance.

A committee of Santa Barbara citizens is now planning a campaign for the financing of preliminary costs connected with formation of such a camp, and has under consideration the establishment of dormitories, classrooms, dining rooms, etc.

It is hoped that the new camp may be completed and ready for occupancy by the summer of 1932. Dr. Arthur Rodzinski, the present conductor of Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, having already been chosen to direct the new camp.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

The Cattle King, by Edward F. Treadwell, published by MacMillan.

"The Cattle King" is the biography of Henry Miller, one of the two original partners of the famous firm of Miller & Lux, which is still engaged in all sorts of business, though principally in farming in the state of California.

This firm was founded in 1857 as a partnership and continued as such until the death of Mr. Lux in 1887, when Miller became the sole owner of "Miller & Lux." When Mr. Miller died in 1916 he was sole owner of a million acres of land and a million head of cattle. Much of his land was devoted to grain and fruit; he owned the principal meat-packing plants of San Francisco, and for many years controlled the cattle market because of the immense herds of cattle that he yearly sent to market.

Miller's real name was Henry Krieser, although by special act of the California legislature he had it changed to Henry Miller. He adopted his new name in order to make use of a steamship ticket issued to a friend in New York. This friend had planned to go west at the time of the gold rush but for some reason or other changed his mind a day before sailing for San Francisco. "Kreiser" bought his friend's ticket and, fearful of being refused passage if he disclosed his real name, sailed as Henry Miller and used that name from then on.

Miller came to California because he was "land hungry" and dreamed of some day owning an immense ranch of his own. He landed in San Francisco in 1850 and secured a job as butcher's helper, a trade he had learned in Germany. As soon as he was able he went in business for himself and, owing to his industry and thrift and the demand for meat in those prosperous days, soon accumulated a modest fortune. One day an exceptional lot of fine fat cattle were received in the market and he couldn't rest until he found where they came from.

Miller found the rancher who produced the fine cattle in 1854 and discovered him to be a man "bitten by the lure of gold." He bought the ranch at his own price and the foundation of his fortune was laid. Whenever he was able he bought more land and rarely sold any of it. California in those early days sold swamp land for $1.25 an acre. If the purchaser spent $1.25 an acre improving it the state rebated him the purchase price. Miller took full advantage of this law and in the next 20 years, while still under 50, he acquired hundreds of thousands of acres along the San Joaquin and Kern rivers. He reclaimed the swamp or overflow lands of the Kern river by digging a canal 100 feet wide and 50 miles long, reclaiming and acquiring 100,000 acres of what is now the best land of that river valley. The projects along the San Joaquin secured even more land. He early recognized the fact that whoever made use of the water then freely going to waste would some day under the common law of England and the United States become the owner of those water rights. Such proved to be the case and he was always busy laying out new canals and establishing rights to more water.

Miller also recognized the fact that dry years frequently brought misery, hardship and bankruptcy to cattle men in California and for this reason he insisted that part of the hay crop should be stored for future use. When the dry years of 1886 and 1889 came, Henry Miller was able to save his stock, although a million cattle died upon the plains and hills of this state.

Later he bought the best grazing lands of southwest Oregon and Nevada.

A man as rich as Miller has enemies as well as powerful friends. He had to spend a fortune proving title to his lands and it was scarcely considered a crime to kill his cattle for food. Should men be caught and brought to trial for it the jury would seldom convict. His constant admonition to his foremen was to be fair with neighbors and make friends for the company.

His tremendous interests, however, also gave him great power. Hoboes were a plague to him, killing his cattle and frequently setting fire to his crops and haystacks. So he issued instructions that no man who asked for food should be turned away from his ranch kitchens; but no one should be given more than one meal or one night's lodging. The result was fewer fires, but also a band of hoboes who marched from one of his properties to another, eating Henry Miller's food.

His experiences with bandits, his homely thrift advice to his managers, his tireless energy in looking after his properties is fascinating. No one in California can possibly know his state without getting acquainted with Henry Miller, and this highly interesting book is certainly one way to do it.

Snobs, by M. A. Dormie, published by D. Appleton & Co.

"Snobs" is a novel, written in the first person, supposedly by a young American bride, Molly Duncan Service, who goes to England with her English husband, Bill. It consists of the notes and observations of the bride, Molly, who apparently finds relief in writing a bit frankly. The author of this book has a glorious gift for wit and more than superficial discernment.

Molly is a model of tact and diplomacy. She tries to understand the customs and reserves of the people among whom she is to make her home and the understanding ripens into love.

Of her husband's father and mother she writes: "Sir William and Lady Service are really darlings, but they do take a bit of getting used to, even by someone who's doing her best to 'adapt,' as I am."

Two of the high places in the book are where Molly describes the first time she saw a cricket game. Afterward, when she is inclined to be flippant about it and says she much prefers tiddlywinks for a real lively time, her good friends advises her that if she laughs at cricket, meaning to be funny, people just won't understand. "Cricket is more than just a game to an Englishman. It's a tradition. It means something to him I can't explain, but if you are wise you will study it up and take it seriously." The other particularly high point is the description Mrs. Duncan, Molly's mother, who is really awfully up to date, gives of a week end spent with some neighbors of Molly's. They were the kind of people who enjoy hunting and golf and the out-of-doors generally, which was not Mrs. Duncan's forte. In the evening at the house party, by chance she got out a pair of dice from her bag and teaches the English to shoot craps. They all had a remarkably good time.

There is a penetration to the observations that throws into relief the flippancies and wit, so that, as well as being amusing, it leaves a pleasant memory and causes one to feel quite safe in recommending it.

"Some day," writes Molly, "I am going to write a book. It will be called 'Molly Service's Ideas on International Living: Mostly Trash.' When I have said honestly what fools we all are on most of the matters that we allow to affect our judgment of one another, I will suggest the only possible remedy—the growth, in laboratories if necessary, of an international sense of humor; to be distributed post free upon written application.

"Because the things which irritate us most are, in themselves, so trivial. A Britisher, watching an American maneuvering with green peas and the concave side of his fork, utters a prayer that he may transfer his operations to his knife and cut his throat. A Yankee, watching an Englishman's struggle with the same vegetable and the convex side of the same instrument, murmurs, 'What awful manners!'"

Jungle Ways, by William B. Seabrook, published by Harcourt, Brace & Co.

Parts of "Jungle Ways" are so startling that it needs the publisher's reassurance that it presents an accurate and original account of primitive magic and sorcery. One has to have a bit of faith in Mr. Seabrook's veracity not to feel that he outdoes Trader Horn in story telling.

A bridge over a river had broken down; a bridge which the author had to cross in order to penetrate from Central Africa into Liberia. The bridge was made of vines and trailers and roots. The witchcrafters went through some strange incantations and threw the entrails of sacrificial offerings into the river. A large band of people, all blacks except the author, waited tensely for the river god to give some manifestations. The women threw bracelets and other jewelry into the river.

"Then," he writes, "I saw that two ends of twisted vines were poking themselves up out of the water and crawling like living serpents, moved by no apparent human agency, up the steep bank toward the trees. They writhed like headless serpents crawling upward, dragging their long length out of the river depths, becoming thicker in body as a great emerging snake does, until they were vine cables heavy as a man's forearm. Africa seems to bewitch people.

Mr. Seabrook gives a number of recipes for preparing human flesh and tells of his own experiment in eating it. He reports that it tastes like veal. The book is fascinating reading but bizarre and not at all the sort of thing for the delicate minded and young people.

Book Notes....

Angelo Patri, whose new book, "The Questioning Child" has just been published by Appleton, is now announced as this year's recipient of "The Parents' Magazine" medal. This medal is awarded each year on the nomination of a committee from the United Parents' Associations of New York, and is given for distinguished service in parental education.

"Mexican Maze" by Carleton Beals is the June selection of the Book League of America. It has seventy-odd illustrations by Diego Rivera.

Ludwig Huna, Viennese novelist and playwright, contributes to this spring's novels the third book of the Borgia Trilogy which he has been writing. Called "The Maid of Nettuno" it concerns the last years of the Great Ceasar Borgia and the devotion to him of the Maid Carmela Accoiti.

Huna was born in Vienna and was educated at Military schools in Hungary. In 1906 he left the army and devoted himself to writing. He was successful as a playwright and a short story writer but when his historical novels were published he knew he had found his true medium. He spent long hours studying in preparation for the Borgia Trilogy of which "The Maid of Netunno" is the last volume. It will be published by Brewer, Warren and Putnam on May first.

AN AERIAL PREDICTION

WASHINGTON, — "Commercial aviation is going to have the best year it ever enjoyed during 1931," says W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general. "The entire industry has settled down and is on the way to greater accomplishments as the result of conditions experienced last year," Glover encouragingly reports.

OCEANVIEW

OCEANVIEW, May 9.—May 28 is the date set for the eighth grade class play of Oceanview school and the group and the instructor, Miss Washburn, are now hard at work on the play, "Rescue By Radio." The play is a two act production and costuming will be in charge of Misaka Harami and Mary Lou Hurst. Property managers will be Earl Easterly and Verle Cowling. No admittance will be charged to the play, which will be presented in the school auditorium.

The characters follow: "Madge" Mozelle Turner; "Janet" Lois Treece; "Helen" Stella Potnoe; "Bab" Elva Young; "Rae" Bula Lewis; "Clem" Margaret Maxey; "Bart" Pauline Lawrence; "Kitty," Mary Lou Hurt; "Lucia," Laura Hill; "Robin," Oril Garrett; "Miss Price," Rebekah Davis; "Kits," Kenneth Hiramt.

Several applicants for positions on the Oceanview school faculty were interviewed by Messrs. Preston, Heil and DeLaverne at a school board meeting held Monday evening at the school. No new teachers have been signed up so far.

Mrs. Dorothy Helm, teacher in the school was out of school this week as the result of illness and Mrs. Harry Letson substituted for her.

CALIF. PARKS MAKING READY FOR BIG YEAR

With every indication that 1931 will be a year of heavy motor travel, preparations are being made for a banner season in the major national parks of the country, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The gates of a number of parks will shortly be thrown open to America's touring millions. It is expected that close to 3,000,000 motor tourists will visit the parks this year. A schedule of the opening and closing dates follows:

Yosemite, Sequoia and General Grant in California, open all year; Lassen Volcanic, California, June 1 to September 15; Mount Rainier, Washington, open all year (summer season June 15 to September 15); Crater Lake, Oregon, July 1 to September 20; Grand Canyon, Arizona, open all year; Glacier, Montana, June 15 to September 15; Bryce Canyon, Utah, June 1 to September 25; Zion, Utah, open all year; Grand Teton, Wyoming, June 20 to September 19; Yellowstone, Wyoming, June 20 to September 19; Mesa Verde, Colorado, May 15 to October 1; Wind Cave, South Dakota, open all year (summer season June 1 to September 30; Rocky Mountain, Colorado, open all year (summer season June 15 to September 20); Platt, Oklahoma, open all year; Hot Springs, Arkansas, open all year; Acadia, Maine, open all year; Hawaii, Hawaiian islands, open all year; Mount McKinley, Alaska, June 1 to September 15.

CHRYSLER IN NEW SENSATIONAL RUN

A sensational run was made recently in a Chrysler Imperial Eight close-coupled sedan from Los Angeles to Houston, via San Antonio, according to information furnished Chrysler officials by O. A. Wilson of the Embleton Motor company, San Antonio Chrysler distributors.

The run was made by L. Tadlock, well known West Coast automobile race driver.

Tadlock left Los Angeles at noon on Saturday, March 28, and arrived in San Antonio early the following Monday afternoon, a distance of 1670 miles across one of the most difficult stretches of road in the country. He had his car serviced at Embleton's and then made a quick run to Houston.

The run to Houston was timed and Tadlock made the 226 miles in three hours and forty minutes, an average of 61.7 miles per hour.

The party encountered considerable high water and muddy roads in the Del Rio section, along the Mexican border, and found numerous cars stalled owing to flood conditions, according to information from Tadlock.

PACKARD CARS ALWAYS MODERN SAYS DEALER

Modernity in automobiles is not measured by one or two devices in its makeup but by a balanced group of factors that makes the whole produce satisfactory in the hands of the 1931 buyer, according to Elvin E. Webb, local Packard dealer for Orange county.

The cornerstone laying committee of a New York residential hotel recently invited distinguished authorities on contemporary design to answer the question, "What is the most modern automobile as far as its design is concerned?" This method was taken as the means of selecting a photograph, indicative of the most advanced thought of the moment, in automobiles, to be sealed in the cornerstone.

On the basis of what agreement could be found among the authorities consulted, the committee determined to enshrine a photograph of the Packard car.

Such honor is not accorded without much thought and study by designers in all classes of art and Packard is justly proud of its honor, as are all Packard owners, for Packard not only is, but remains modern.

BEAUTY MARKS DESIGN OF NEW STUDEBAKERS

Beauty cannot be said to be "skin-deep" in the new Free-Wheeling Studebaker Commander Eight Regal Sedan. For, giving it its true valuation in terms of graceful body lines, lovely color finish, fine workmanship and "sweet" performance, beauty goes all the way through in this model, according to Harry Riley, Studebaker dealer here.

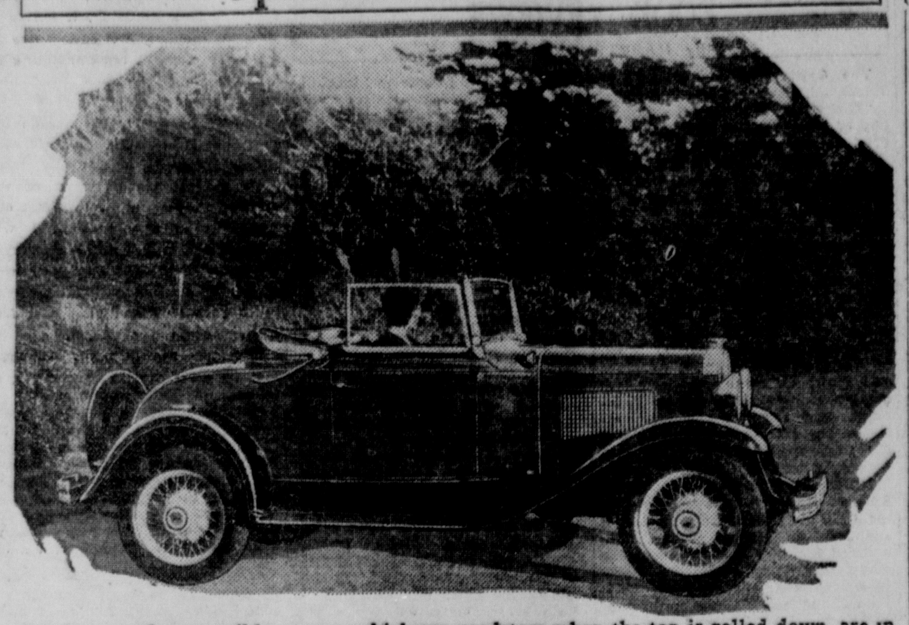

"From the new sloping radiator equipped with high turbulence air deflectors, to the distinctive fender parking lights, every feature of body design is ultra smart. Upholstery is fine broadcloth. Six wire wheels, two in front fender wells, are standard, as well as a folding luggage grid.

"To the proved championship reputation of a brilliant straight eight power plant of 101 horsepower have been added the many outstanding driving and operating advantages of Free Wheeling with positive gear control.

"Briefly, these are summarized in easy, effortless gear shifting between second and high without use of the clutch, a new and delightful driving and riding thrill; reduced muscular and mental effort, a greater degree of safety, reduced wear and tear on engine and chassis, and savings of 20 per cent in gas and oil. Positive gear control makes the full braking power of the engine instantly available.

"A new degree of steering ease has been obtained through a cam and lever type steering gear and Timken bearing pivots. This is supplemented by a kick shackle on the front spring which prevents the transmission of road shocks to the steering wheel. Double drop frame construction, balanced spring suspension, powerful hydraulic shock absorbers, and ball bearing spring shackles contribute to maximum roadability and riding comfort."

Open or Closed at Will

Roadsters and convertible coupes, which are roadsters when the top is rolled down, are in demand now that Spring is here. There's a thrill in the sweep of the wind in an open car. This is a Chevrolet, one of the De Luxe models, with radiator grille and wire wheels.

REO MAN SAYS ALL CARS NOT MADE FOR SPEED

The trend to speedier motor cars so noticeable in the industry today will prove a feature of permanent attraction only in those automobiles wherein speed is predicted on a sound economic basis, thinks W. W. Woods, local Reo dealer.

Mr. Woods declares that those who regard speed as an end in itself, and so cater directly and entirely to the speed demon, will behold a vanishing market confronting them.

"Speed must be harnessed for service," said Mr. Woods. "It must make its return in dollars and cents, not only in time saved and ground covered, but in improved performance of the motor car. Efficiency is the watchword for today and the future day.

"Today they are making cars like the Reo-Royale with aerodynamic lines, not only because they are beautiful and graceful and fast, but because they offer 12 to 14 per cent less wind resistance than cars of conventional design. The Reo-Royale, because of this elimination of wind resistance, affects a real saving of gasoline, oil and general wear and tear. This has been conclusively demonstrated by tests in wind tunnels at the University of Detroit," Mr. Woods said.

"Speed is to be secured more efficiently with the Reo-Royale than with a car of conventional design. In the Reo-Royale we have achieved such co-ordination and efficiency in a powerful car that it costs no more to operate than its ordinary neighbor."

BUENA PARK ROAD WORK COMPLETED

The construction work on Whittaker avenue east of Buena Park has been completed, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Bald-Headed Tires Always Dangerous

Bald-headed automobiles tires, or those which should have been replaced, are responsible for many automobile accidents, according to L. P. Damewood, Goodrich tire dealer, located at First and Broadway.

"Tires which have worn smooth have lost their roadability; they have lost their skidding resistance; they are no longer capable of withstanding severe road shocks; they are a menace on the highway, and most of all a hazard in the path of human life," Mr. Damewood declared.

"For that reason the Silvertown Safety League, sponsored by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, in the interest of safer driving, has as one of its nine cardinal points the pledge to 'operate my car on tires which assure a positive grip on the road—safe traction—and freedom from hazardous tire failure.'

"We read in the papers almost daily of fatalities caused by tire blowouts, a skidding automobile, or some similar cause. Now and then we know personally the man, woman or child who was the victim of tire neglect. Then the question of safer motoring comes more directly into our own lives.

"It is time each of us asks this question: 'Are my tires safe?' If we can answer affirmatively we have complied with one of the most important rules of safe driving and we have eliminated from our minds a liability for which even the courts may now hold us responsible."

DEATH INCREASE SEEN ALTHOUGH NO MORE CARS

Although the increase in the number of automobiles in use throughout the United States last year was less than 1 per cent, reports for the first three months of this year show an increase of 8 per cent in traffic fatalities, it is revealed in reports of the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

A report for the first three months in Los Angeles city and county shows 204 deaths charged against motor vehicles, compared with 182 for the same period last year, or a gain of more than 12 per cent.

While the total deaths showed a large increase, fatalities among children of school age showed a marked decrease over last year. Twelve deaths in this class were reported the first three months as against 18 for the same period last year.

The largest increase in the death rate was in children under 5 years of age, which was double the record for the same period last year. A heavy incerase also is shown in persons over 65 years of age. There were 34 lost their lives last year in traffic during the first three months, while the same period this year shows a total of 43.

The marked decrease in deaths among children of school age is attributed to the intensive safety work that is being carried on in the schools through the co-operation of the board of education and the public safety department of the automobile club.

'PROSPERITY 6' ANNOUNCED BY GRAHAM-PAIGE

Graham yesterday set at rest the rumors and conjectures that have been prevalent in automotive circles by unveiling a large high-powered low-priced new model, the Prosperity Six, which had been heralded, by name only, in a preliminary mystery campaign.

The new six, although larger and more powerful than several previous Graham sixes, is offered at the lowest price by far in Graham history, the delivered price of the four-door five-passenger six-window sedan being $165 lower than that for the Standard Six, the next lowest priced Graham six.

Has All Graham Features

The Prosperity Six is typically Graham in form and style, and adheres to the Graham standard design in construction and mechanical equipment, having all the most important features of the Special six and the two eights except the synchro-silent four-speed transmission. In short, it is a three-speed companion car to the four-speed models.

Four body styles comprise the Prosperity Six series—the business coupe, list price, $785; rumble-seat coupe, $825; the two-window four-door sedan, $795; and the sedan, $825.

C. A. Greenleaf, owner of Greenleaf Motors, declares that the Prosperity Six represents the outstanding achievement of the three Graham brothers as manufacturers.

"Only a factory equipped to make complete cars—engines, chassis and bodies—entirely in its own plants, and a factory led by masters of modern production methods," said Mr. Greenleaf, "could produce a full sized automobile at the prices set for the Prosperity Six while fully maintaining their high standards of quality, workmanship, and owner values.

Larger Car, Lower Price

"While the new model is by far the lowest priced car in Graham history, it is larger, roomier, more powerful, and better equipped than any previous Graham three-speed six in the low price market. The Prosperity Six is as genuinely Graham in quality and workmanship as the costlier four-speed six and eights, and reveals the advanced engineering and structural features, in chassis and body, that distinguish Graham cars.

"This achievement is made possible by the Grahams' policy of standardized design, under which all their four different chassis models are built to a single general plan, under the same high standards of design, materials and workmanship, and equipped with identical units. Only through such standardization can a factory effect the economies that permit the production of quality cars at popular prices."

Pennsylvania Would Stop Sunday Traffic

Sunday motoring was hit in a bill recently introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature directed against the sale on Sunday of "liquid fuels, lubricating oils and auto accessories," according to reports received here.

The sponsor of the proposal pointed out that "baseball, theatricals, motion pictures and other innocent amusements are forbidden on Sunday, so why should not automobiling also be prohibited?"

BUICK SALES IN ORANGE COUNTY SHOW INCREASE

An indication of the return to prosperity is seen in the deliveries of Buick automobiles in Orange county, according to W. R. Gordon, sales-manager for the Reid Motor company, local Buick dealers.

Gordon, in an interview today was optimistic over the expected business for the coming months and stated that he believed that by the end of the year, automobile sales in Southern California would be nearing their old mark.

In stressing the point, he stated that 12 big Buicks had been delivered from the local agency during the past two weeks.

New owners include Warren Amos, Dr Loman C. Adams, Harry Hayes, Harry Bradley, H. Drummet, F. M. Robinson, E. J. Belew, Dr. Horace Leecing, all of Santa Ana; A. L. Tomblin, Miss Bertha Hilton, Herman Walther all of Orange and S. R. Hagaman, Laguna Beach.

TORRY PINES ROAD BEING WORKED ON

Dirt road for a distance of 200 yards will be encountered on U. S. highway 101 just north of Torrey Pines grade, according to a report received by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

COST OF ROAD WORK IN 1931 IS GREATEST

Although retrenchment policies generally were adopted by state legislatures at the beginning of this year, highway construction in 1931 probably will break all existing records, it is indicated in reports reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. There were 43 legislatures in session early in the year and to 40 of these the governors of the states devoted considerable portions of their messages to highway problems. With the exception of one governor, each of the others urged on his legislature an increased highway program.

In view of California's progressive state program for highway development, action of other states indicates that this state was on the right track, it is pointed out by the automobile club. This state adopted a secondary highway program and it is noted that the governors of Arkansas, Connecticut, Illinois, Vermont, Iowa and Ohio stressed the need of such action.

In Alabama, Arkansas and North Dakota increases in the gasoline tax were recommended, while in some other states increases in motor vehicle license fees are being considered. There was general condemnation of the tendencies of some states to divert motor vehicle revenue to other than highway construction and maintenance.

For the next biennium, roughly estimated, the state of California will have about $100,000 a day to spend on highway maintenance, reconstruction and construction work. Large as this sum may appear, it does not meet the ever-increasing demands being made by various districts for highway development. However, it is believed that the "pay as you go" system in California will keep it among the outstanding states in highway development for the next two years, even though 1931 legislation has been the most progressive and far-reaching in highway matters in the history of the nation.

CLOSE LONG BEACH BRIDGE TO PUBLIC

The Seventh-street bridge across the flood control channel in Long Beach is closed to traffic. However, paved detours may be used either by way of Ocean avenue or Anaheim street, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

OPEN CARS ARE ARISTOCRATIC MODELS IN 1931

The open car has become the aristocrat of the motor car business.

It was not so long ago that the closed car was the last word in motordom. Those who could afford something luxurious, bought enclosed cars and they cost a great deal more than the open models. Then came the day of quantity production methods, and closed cars now constitute by far the larger part of all motor car production.

"An answer to the problem of open and closed car ownership is the convertible coupe, which can be used as a roadster with the top rolled down and becomes a coupe with the top up," stated E. W. Fuhr, Pacific regional manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

"Chevrolet introduced the convertible car early this year and has produced thousands of them. The comfort feature of this type of car is that the windows, which slide out of sight, inside the doors when rolled down, can be raised and used as wind wings when the car is used as a roadster. When the top is up and the car is a coupe the windows fit well, keeping out the wind and rain.

"With the coming of spring, demand has arisen for roadsters, too. In order to supply this demand, Chevrolet has increased production in plants throughout the United States. By building in large quantities, prices have been kept at a minimum.

"Roadsters and convertible coupes are being used more and more as business cars. There is plenty of room for luggage in the rear deck. A salesman can carry samples in fairly large trunks and travel thousands of miles with all his material with him.

'Campers, too, have been attracted to the open car. The tent and camping equipment can be carried in the rear, leaving the front compartment entirely free for the passengers."

"Navy Bill" Ingram and His New Car

When Bill Ingram, coach of the Navy, changed his stamping grounds and signed as football coach at the University of California, there was joy there, because Ingram has the reputation of turning out winners. One of the first things he did was to get a Buick straight eight sedan for use in his travels, and they have been extensive since he took charge.

"BILL" INGRAM OWNER OF NEW BUICK MACHINE

When William A. "Navy Bill" Ingram arrived in Berkeley to take up his duties as football coach of the University of California, his first piece of work was to establish a household for himself and family in his new domain. There was no lack of assistance proffered Ingram in his task, for he was besieged by real estate agents, furniture men, refrigerator dealers, automobile salesmen and others who felt qualified to suggest the proper ideas for a home and all its accessories.

However, in selecting a place of abode and all the necessary accourtements for a happy and comfortable existence, "Navy Bill" exercised the same care and patience that he employs in choosing his material for a football team. The result is that he has acquired the exact type of home he wanted—with a glass play house for his little daughter, Nancy; a splendid view of the bay, and a convenient garage for his new car, a Buick Straight Eight sedan.

"Needless to say, in purchasing his automobile, the U. S. coach insisted that the car under consideration prove its ability just as he insists on each recruit showing his worth as a candidate for the varsity squad.

"It is a glowing tribute to Buick's performing qualities and luxurious appearance that after looking over and trying out various makes of automobiles, Ingram selected the 'Eight as Buick Builds It' as the family motor car," declared H. E. Loomis, Pacific regional manager of the Buick Motor company, in commenting on the sale of the car to the new U. C. coach.

William A. Ingram comes to Berkeley from the U. S. Naval Academy, where he has served as football coach since 1926.

HEAVY DELIVERIES MADE BY DE SOTO

DETROIT, Mich., May 9.—Retail deliveries of De Soto motor cars for the week ending April 4 showed an increase of 35.5 per cent over the previous week, according to a statement issued here today by L. G. Peed, general sales manager of De Soto Motor corporation.

This marked increase in sales activity made retail deliveries for the week of April 4, the largest week since last July, the statement reported.

"Retail deliveries of De Soto cars," Mr. Peed said, "have been showing a most satisfactory increase for some time past. The increase shown for the week ending April 4 may be taken as the reflection, so far as De Soto is concerned, of the definite upturn which the automobile industry has recently felt."

NEW OLDSMOBILE HAS FINER BODIES-INCREASED POWER and the SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION

THE 4-DOOR SEDAN

The many new features incorporated in the new Oldsmobile are not confined to any one part of the car. Body, engine, and chassis—all provide evidence of the advanced engineering which makes the new Oldsmobile such a remarkable value at its new low price.

Fundamental advancements in construction make its new Fisher bodies unusually strong, quiet, and serviceable. New insulation makes them warmer in winter and cooler in summer. And smart new tailoring and appointments add to the attractiveness of body interiors.

New features which have been added to Oldsmobile's dependable engine make performance even more pleasing than in the past. New downdraft carburetion brings increased power—with higher speed and faster acceleration. It also makes starting in cold weather quicker and easier. And a new carburetor-silencer contributes to quieter operation throughout the entire speed range.

In addition, new ease of handling is offered by the famous Syncro-Mesh non-clashing transmission—a feature heretofore found only in higher priced cars. Gears can be shifted quickly and silently at all speeds, without clashing. And Oldsmobile's new Quiet Second Gear . . . an added feature . . . assures smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high gear performance in quietness.

These features are typical of the exceptional quality which prevails throughout the entire car. Examination will reveal many others. But only when you take the wheel can you fully appreciate how much these features really add to the zest and thrill of driving the new Oldsmobile.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

As down the street the happy bunch were carried, one said, "I've a hunch that we are very heavy. Maybe two of us should walk. The two Chinese seem very strong, but we don't want to treat them wrong." Wee Scouty merely laughed and said, "My goodness, how you talk!

"Those men are used to heavy loads. Why, all day long they travel roads with chair poles on their shoulders and they do not mind one bit. As long as they don't say a thing, let's all just sit right here and sing. Perhaps 'twill entertain them, if our vioces all are fit."

So as they traveled right along, the Tinymites broke into song. "Hi, ho! We're having lots of fun and, too, we ride in style. This covered chair's a clever thing. It makes you feel just like a king." To see how happy they all were made both the chair men smile.

Right down one street they'd go and then swing 'round and come right back again. Soon Coppy said, "I think that we have had our fill. It's best that we now join the Travel Man and just as quickly as we can. I'll bet you that the chair men will be glad to have a rest."

The Travel Man was shortly found. The whole bunch jumped out to the ground and Carpy cried, "Let's walk down to a stream and watch the boats. I love the water mighty well and all the queer craft look just swell. In fact, it's fun to sit and watch most anything that floats."

Their walk, they found, was not in vain. A big boat loaded down with cane came slowly by the place where they were loafing. "Look at it!" cried Clowny. "All that cane you see will come in handy as can be. 'Twill shortly all be used on chairs on which the people sit." (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard, but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

GOAL to HOME—After we attained our GOAL we shot for HOME in four strokes. See if you can better that mark.

BOULDER CITY HAS NO PARKING WORRIES NOW

One city in the United States at least is solving its automobile parking problem, it is indicated in reports reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. This will be the new town of Boulder City, Nev., being built by the government near the site of the Boulder dam, which structure will require some 1000 to 2000 workmen eight to ten years to complete.

The solution of the parking problem has been found in the use of a public district on the plaza idea, rather than straight street lines. The whole busines s section of Boulder City is designed around three business plazas cut in the middle by the main business street of the city. The central plaza is to be built first, and the out plazas are reserved for unusual growth. In the very heart of the plaza an area is reserved for grass and trees, but if unforeseen growth should need this additional area it can be opened for parking purposes.

With the present available space, according to the plan, Boulder City can park 1400 automobiles off of its streets. The development of this parking area as Boulder City grows doubtless will be watched with keen interest by city planners and developers the country over.

Siskiyou County In Work to Stop Forest Fires

Recognizing the importance of protecting the forest, watersheds, and recreational areas of northern California from fire, the Siskiyou county board of supervisors passed resolutions on April 6 for the appointment of a committee with authority and funds, as representatives of the board, to prevent fires, and called on the entire population of the county to do its share.

Invitations were sent to neighboring counties urging them to cooperate by carrying on similar fire prevention activity. Various organizations in the state, including the Automobile Club of Southern California and the California State Automobile Association are aiding in the fire prevention campaign.

Advice Given To Motorists Who Plan Auto Trips

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 2.—(UP)—Spring time is touring time, hence this reminder by the state division of motor vehicles.

Touring equipment should not be packed so as to hide the front or rear license plates on a car, because this practice is a violation of the state motor code.

Do not fasten equipment to lights. This often obscures the lights or causes the brackets to bend, resulting in incorrect focus.

The luggage should be tied securely and in such a manner as not to project beyond the hubcap on the left side of the vehicle or more than six inches beyond the caps on the right side.

HISTORY OF FARM BUREAU OUTLINED

Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, gave an outline of the history of the Orange County Farm bureau and the extension service at a meeting of the directors of the Farm bureau held Thursday in the new quarters in the court house annex.

He told of how the Farm bureau had been organized in November, 1917 when W. L. Grubb of Santa Ana had been chosen first president and Roy Bishop first secretary. In October, 1919, the organization sent H. B. Woodruf as its representative to the convention at Berkeley, where the California Federation of Farm bureaus was organized.

The Orange County Farm bureau has been one of the strongest in the state and the membership at the present time is 1600, the largest in the history of the organization.

BIG INCREASE SEEN IN SALE OF NEW NASH

KENOSHA, Wis., May 9.—Orders for April delivery of new Nash cars increased 72.68 per cent during the first 15 working days in April over those on hand April 1, it was announced today by C. H. Bliss, vice president in charge of sales of the Nash Motors company.

This steady improvement in the Nash demand, he added, has brought 6.16 per cent more orders during the first half of April than the total number of cars that were shipped from the Nash factories during all of March, which shipments in turn were greater than those made from the factories in any month since April, 1930, with the exception of October when the four new series of Nash cars were introduced.

Greatest Performing Car in America!
Say Eight-90 Owners

AT 5 miles, or 85 miles, an hour, you have never driven a car that performed so sweetly. With aluminum alloy, double invar strut pistons—instead of cast iron; a 9-bearing crankshaft—instead of five bearings; and hollow drilled crankpins eliminating thousands of pounds of centrifugal weight—instead of solid crankpins, this Twin-Ignition, valve-in-head 115 horse power car is speedier on the get-away than anything you have experienced before. Why not put this great car through its paces? Phone us—a car will be sent to your door.

The delivered price of this Straight-Eight, fully equipped, is $1880. This includes radiator grill, spare tire, tire lock, tire cover, bumpers and freight—the car complete, ready to drive. For your own protection, compare the difference between the Nash f. o. b. price and the Nash delivered price, with the difference between the f. o. b. and delivered prices of any competitive car. See how much Nash saves you.

HIGH FLASH....What It Means To Motorists

NO FAILURES WITH THIS NEW MOTOR OIL

The temperature to which a motor oil must be heated before it gives off a combustible vapor is termed "Flash Point". The temperature at which the motor oil itself ignites is termed "Fire Point". Comparative tests have proven that Gilmore Lion Head Motor Oil possesses a "Flash and Fire" away higher than that usually acknowledged sufficient.

Automotive lubrication experts demand motor oils with "High Flash and Fire." This term indicates a motor oil that insures a cooler running motor, perfect lubrication of all moving parts and lower operating costs.

Pure Pennsylvania motor oils have the highest Flash and Fire of all motor oils—yet even these vary.

Gilmore selects the premium price crudes from Pennsylvania's finest fields—and refines them by special process to protect their natural heat resistant properties—they are then "Filter-Pured" to remove non-lubricating substances and free carbon.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 9—(UP)—Weakness in especial stocks today brought prices down one to three points in the main list and a few issues down as much as eight points.

Prices were firm at the opening and for a time the list advanced under the impetus of short covering, a carry over from yesterday's sesion.

J. I. Case met a severe setback that unsettled the list. It broke more than 10 points to a new low below 70. Selling was induced by dividend uncertainty. The same reason was given for liquidation in Johns-Manville, which broke to 43, off four points, and Western Union 103, off 7½, both new lows for the bear market.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, May 9.—(UP)—Firmnes at Winnipeg and strength in corn advanced wheat prices sharply on the Board of Trade today, shorts covering on the rise. There was no material presure and the less favorable European crop reports coupled with delayed seeding in Russia aided themarket. Profit taking and selling against offers checked the advance. Little attention was paid to the government crop report after the opening. Corn was very active and scored a sharp advance with shorts covering and a leading professional on the buying side. July led the advance. Profit takers also were active in corn with some selling against offers but the market held its gains. Oats were firmer with corn.

At the close wheat was ¾ to 1⅛c higher with May unchanged, corn was ¾ to 1¾c higher and oats were unchanged to ⅜c higher. Provisions were firmer on buying by small packers.

Cash prices were wheat ½ to ¾c higher, corn ½ to one cent higher and oats unchanged.

Receipts were wheat 88 cars, corn 47 and oats 38.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, May 9—(UP)—Slightly firmer tendencies in representative shares throughout the general list and brisk demand for leaders in the motor group featured active trading in curb stocks in the abbreviated weekend session today.

Ford Ltd. rallied nearly a point, while other automotive leaders made further prgoress on the upside, Cord Corporation and Stutz firming up ½ point each.

In the public utility division, fractional increases were scored in American and Foreign Power warrants, Associated Gas and Electric(Brazil Traction and Light, Lone Star Gas, St. Regis Paper, United Gas and United Light and Power A. Electric Bond and Share eased slightly after a gain of two points late yesterday, and American Superpower and Niagara Hudson Power sold unchanged from the previous session.

Vacuum Oil mraked trading in the oils, moving up nearly a point while small advances were maintained in Cities Service, Humble and Standard of Indiana. In the specialty column, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea lost mort than a point against the trend.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, May 9.—(UP)—Further strength in railroad bonds featured the brief week end session on the bond market today, a broad list of representative carriers extending the gains of the previous session. Missouri Pacific and St. Louis-San Francisco issues were in good demand.

A generally steady tone prevailed in other sections of the list. Colon Oil sixes were strong, rising three points, while fair demand was in evidence for utilities like Postal Telegraph fives and International Hydro-electric sixes around the previous closing levels.

Foreign obligations were mixed but the trend was mainly higher. Minas Beraes 6½s '59 broke almost four points among the South American loans, but advancing tendencies were displayed in leading European bonds, fractional gains being made by German sevens⅞ French 7½s, Italy sevens and Vienna sixes.

WANTED, A POOR OFFER
Yes, we want a poor offer. Not too poor, of course,—one that will go through—but considering everything, you get a nice clean deal. The property is 10 1-2 acres of 10 year old Valencias on fine sandy loam soil with an estimated crop, now hanging, of 3000 boxes of better than the average fruit. Uniform in size, healthy trees, extra good present care insures you a good permanent grove. Next year's crop looks like a bumper. Cash, or possibly a little exchange will do it for you, but there must be cash.

HOME OWNING
Home owning is a business—the difference between the first and last cost of a house depends largely on the quality of the material and workmanship. By the correct use of high grade materials and the strict adherence to the fundamental principles of sound financing, the business of home owning can be made unusually profitable during the years that are immediately ahead. This is an excellent time for home building. We have many choice building lots other than Floral Park. We will furnish plans and finance your home anywhere you furnish the lot.

THE INDIVIDUAL AND THE GROUP

There is a difference in the degree of contentedness, which is to be observed among the people abroad and those of our own country, and one wonders at the cause. The lot of the average person, judged from the standpoint of material things, is certainly not as good in any foreign country as it is in our own, and yet there is a certain quietness and satisfaction, not to say joy which one sees wherever he goes abroad, that he does not see in our own life.

There are undoubtedly many reasons for this, but we believe that the spirit of brotherhood, of common interest in which the members of the mass find themselves more or less on a parity with equal expenses and similar experiences have bred a mutual understanding which the individualism of America does not foster. Whether we trace the social life back to the feudal system or whether it be that the religious order with a priest taking charge of the group fusing them into a common family of the neighborhood certain it is that there is not that intensity to get a larger income than the neighbor has, that is so common among us. America began its development at the close of the period mentioned under the influence of individual effort and the emulation has come through the comparison by the individual, of his lot, with the lot of his immediate neighbor. And this, through the opportunities afforded the individuals in America and the advantage that has been taken has developed almost to a mad race for personal aggrandizement.

The enjoyment of the average individual in our country is not measured alone by his income but it seems sometimes by the lack of income of his neighbor. This we do not observe abroad where people are pretty much all of the same race and have gone through the same common trials. Their enjoyment comes through social intercourse and they rather share their little surplus, one with the other, than get that peculiar selfish enjoyment which comes from the thought of having something which the neighbor is unable to possess. We note the same spirit occasionally shown in our own country in a great disaster, like the Johnstown flood or the San Francisco earthquake when it levels all to a common plane and really sweetens life by a better understanding. In proportion as we can enjoy the prosperity of our neighbor we can increase our own pleasure without the addition of material things.

A student league in Mexico has decided to boycott American jazz. In a determined effort, perhaps, to shake off the "blues."

WHAT MAKES A MOTHER

In connection with our general observance of Mother's Day, which is becoming one of the most popular of such observations, it is helpful to review just what are the qualities and practices of mothers which hallow their memory.

It is a self-sacrifice, and devoted service to the weak and helpless, in body and spirit. It is quick and spontaneous response to the need for such service. It is the placing of self in the background. These loving memories of mother aren't besmudged with bitter struggles for "self-expression" and "independence" in the family circle and development of mother's "personality."

The dearly beloved mother wasn't temperamental. Sometimes she was almost drab in her sameness but what a relief and comfort to find her anchors securely fastened when everything else was whirling about pretty fast. When the "isms" seemed more important than the little homely things; when the cookie jar and soup seemed so much less intriguing than Browning and Freud; when it is so much more interesting and important to go to the movies than to darn stockings, but the stockings still must be darned and someone who didn't seem to care so much to "gad" about did darn the stockings and restrained her wistful sighs.

It is love and suffering that make the mother. And it is because no one else seems to approach that same degree of love and suffering and self-effacement and sacrifice that the "Mother" is what she is.

A STABILIZER

If it had been calculated to humble the rest of us, the debate between Sir Jame Jeans and Dr. John Millikan in the Norman Bridge laboratory of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena yesterday couldn't have succeeded better. It was a particularly good corrective for the dilettante.

A feeling of reverence and awe and humility is mighty good for all of us. We marvel at the masterpieces in the Huntington Gallery, at the Grand Canyon, at a symphony and at such a contest of intellects as that yesterday and we are impressed by some forces infinitely more wonderful than ourselves and a proper equilibrium is maintained.

FAITH IN ORANGES AND CONFIDENCE IN THE FUTURE

Mr. J. S. Edwards and associates, of Redlands, and East Highlands, in a big way have evidenced their faith in the citrus industry. This by the investment in a single citrus fruit orchard of a sum reported to be "considerable more than a million" dollars. The property includes 1,200 acres of land. Five hundred and fifty acres of the land are well developed citrus in the Greenspot district, Redlands. Much of the acreage is in young trees.

The purchase cannot but inspire with confidence those in the citrus industry for Mr. Edwards is one of the best informed fruit producers of the state. In the face of depression and a season in which prices have not been very attractive Mr. Edwards and his associates who are careful and astute have deemed it wise to invest a very large sum indeed in extending their activities.

The nutritive value of Orange juice insures its future. The popularity of orange juice is not due entirely to creating a demand by advertising. Far from it. For invalids, for babies, for folks who want to reduce orange juice is a necessity, prescribed by the doctors. The rest of us can well follow this lead and drink health and invest our money where so many forces are concentrated to make it profit.

The Horse Passing? Neigh! Neigh!

Christian Science Monitor

On July 31, 1900, Nelson Aubrey stood in front of his harness shop in the northern New York village of Constable and remarked to the gentlemen of leisure loafing beneath the shade of a venerable elm tree:

You fellows may not be able to get work—if you want work—but I'll always have plenty to do because there will always be horses.

We remember the date because it was the day after the circus came to town with the handsomest horses we had ever seen.

Yet today the cobwebs are thick in the old harness shop over the village store. Horses are still used on the farm, but harnesses are mostly ordered from a mail order catalog, and in diminishing numbers year by year. In fact, came the news the other day that an American harness company which had been manufacturing harnesses for ninety-six years had gone out of business. Both Missouri and Pennsylvania have reported the disbanding of antihorse-thief societies recently because they had nothing to do.

The horse may be "passing," but he has not yet PASSED, and there are yet more persons than one would think who still know the difference between a checkrein and a side strap. The most unexpected evidence that the horse is still extant in the United States comes, not from the country, but from the city—and, of all cities, from New York! A "horse census," just completed by the municipal Department of Health in a checkup of the sanitation of stables, disclosed that there are 22,156 horses in the city. And as to the village blacksmith, "still a mighty man is he," for the census takers found 406 "smithies" in operation in New York.

While the majority of the New York City horses are in commercial service, saddle horses number 1729, and these are showing an annual increase because of the rapidly increasing popularity of riding. In the last two years there has been a gain of almost 25 per cent in this type of horse in New York. But coach and carriage horses are so rare that they are not enumerated separately. Most of them are used by old-time "cabbies" who still operate a few phaetons in the Central Park and Washington Square districts.

The majority of the commercial horses are used by express and milk companies, which have found them more economical and more suitable than motorized vehicles for short hauls. The Health Department believes that the present horse "population" of New York will probably remain almost permanent for many years to come. True, in most American cities, motors now stand prosaically in Main Street where horses harnessed to shining buggies used to fight flies while the family shopped in the general store. Perhaps in the next generation airships will usurp the flivvers' place. But even then horses will not be forgotten.

Ticonderoga's Anniversary

Oakland Tribune

When Washington laid seige to Boston he had with him two hundred British cannon which Henry Knox had dragged over the mountains from Ticonderoga. Ethan Allen and his "Green Mountain Boys" had captured the guns in a battle fought 165 years ago. The George Washington Bicentennial Commission marks the date as one to be commemorated in connection with the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of the first President in 1932.

The spectacular attack on Ticonderoga occurred less than a month after the opening gun of the Revolutionary War was fired at Lexington. It was carried out by men who appreciated the grim significance of the event, and who were determined not to turn back until independence had been won. The spirit which actuated the attackers was clearly shown in their refusal to forsake the enterprise when Allen gave each one the opportunity to withdraw just before the attack was made.

When the Americans had forced their way into the fort they proceeded to the quarters of the commandant, De La Place. Colonel Allen confronted the Briton with the demand for his surrender. According to Washington Irving in his Life of Washington, La Place wished to know by what authority the demand was made and received the now immortal reply, "In the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress." Resistance appearing futile the garrison surrendered and Ticonderoga passed into the possession of the Americans.

The Honesty of Baseball

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

The honesty of baseball has never been more strikingly illustrated than it was in the drama of the Brothers Ferrell—Wes of Cleveland and Rick of St. Louis—when Wes pitched a no-hit game at Cleveland recently.

With his kid brother well on the road to achieving a no-hit contest, Rick Ferrell came to bat in the eighth inning. Rick never hesitated; he cracked out a sizzling liner which was saved from being a hit only by the spectacular work of the Cleveland shortstop. The shortstop then made an error by a wide throw to first and Rick was safe. But the point is—it was MEANT to be a hit! Rick Ferrell played the game, although a hit would have blasted the hopes of his kid brother who was trying to accomplish one of the rarest feats in baseball.

This incident tends to overshadow the sordid example of the selfish money-grabbing athlete. There are true sportsmen yet. Wes Ferrell is in the Hall of Fame. Wouldn't it be well to save a niche for Rick? He shouldn't be forgotten. He took the lead in an impromptu drama which illustrated quietly, but effectively, the honesty of a true sportsman and a gentleman.

Anchors A-Weigh!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

JUST A WAIL

When the market goes off
The optimists say
We have nothing to fear;
Perhaps in a day
Or perhaps in a year,
Though the clouds may be dark
We shall catch from on high
The voice of the lark
Floating down from the sky.
But I still sit and frown
As my porridge I sup;
For the market goes down
But it never goes up.

I have read all the dope
Of the men of finance
But illusions of hope
For the future looks black
But it never comes back.
I but gaze at askance.
Things may be O. K.,
As these prophets avow,
But I only can say
They are terrible now.
At rainbows I scoff

My children may be—
If they live a long while—
From anxiety free
And entitled to smile.
But the money I meant
To support my young brood
Has been long ago spent
To buy clothing and food.
If good times are en route,
Though by land or by sea,
I do not give a hoot—
They'll be too late for me.

DISMAL OUTLOOK

Unless times pick up none of the children under 14 will get news cars from Santa Claus next Christmas.

REASON FOR PESSIMISM

We shan't believe that local governments are getting any better so long as our neighbors are permitted to keep early rising chickens.

We Have No Plan

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Is it possible to increase wages fast enough in a capitalistic society? Is it possible for the workers to get enough income to prevent overproduction under a profit, rent, and interest-charging system?

Impossible, many men insist, from Henry George to Henry Ford. Profits, they say—or unearned increment on land—necessarily prevent progress—necessarily prevent the people who want to buy, from getting enough money to buy what they produce.

Such arguments prove too much; for decade after decade, we actually do make progress. What these men say cannot possibly happen, does happen. It happened in the United States, from 1914 to 1929, in a large and dramatic way. The proof is summed up in higher real wages.

That proves that a permanent solution of our major economic problems is possible under capitalism. It does not prove that we SHALL find the solution. It proves merely that we CAN find it, if we have enough sense to make the effort.

Evidently we do not need to do anything miraculous. We do not need to change human nature, or regulate the weather, or remove the sun spots. We do not need to inoculate Congress with the germs of wisdom.

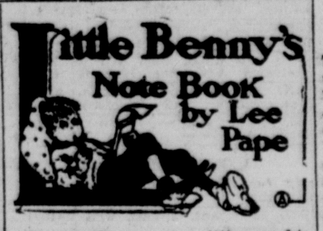

What we need, above all else, is more knowledge of the flow of money in relation to the flow of goods. And, on the basis of such knowledge, we need the courage so to act that consumers will receive enough money, week in and week out, to buy the ever-increasing output of wealth.

For years at a time, we have done precisely that. We have created more wealth and sold it. So, even under capitalism, we must have increased the flow of money to consumers at the right rate.

What we have done at times largely by chance, we can do all the time by careful planning. But at present we have no plan.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Persey Weever was sitting on his frunt steps looking at a big book, and me and Puds Simkins sat down alongside of him, me saying, Whats that, Persey?

This is our family alban, Persey sed, and Puds sed, Well, what of it, we got a family alban too.

Who hasent? I sed. Everybody's got a family alban with a lot of funny old relations in it, I sed.

Well if you had relations like some of mine you wouldent think they was so funny, Persey sed. I gess youve herd of Admiral Weever, havent you? He was a grate admiral in the British navy and if it hadent of been for him they mite not of won a lot of their wars, and here's his picture, and he was my grate granfather, he sed.

Meening a skinny guy in a uniform with a funny looking hat and a long mustash, and I sed, Well good nite, how about Admiral Potts?

Who was he? Persey sed, and I sed, He was my grate grate gratest granfather and he was a admiral in the Chinee navy and one time the whole navy got blown up by the British navy and Admiral Potts was the ony one left in a little rowboat, and he sank the whole British navy all by himself, and for all I know your grate granfather sank with it.

O yes, like fun, Persey sed, and Puds sed, Well how about my grate grate dubble grate tripple grate granfather? His name was Admiral Simkins and he had charge of the whole Swiss navy, and one time your granfather got fired out of the British navy for retreeting too much, and he went and asked Admiral Simkins for a job, and Admiral Simkins kicked him in the British seet of the pants. Show us some more of your relations, he sed.

No, Im going to take my alban in the house, Persey sed.

Wich he did trying to look hawty.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE EDUCATIONAL FOCUS

From time to time during the next few months I want to try to interpret, in simple and understandable terms, what the men and women standing on the frontiers of educational experimentation are thinking.

Today I want to indicate the point upon which all of this mass of experimentation is brought to focus.

For generations we spent most of our time thinking about what we should or should not put into the curriculum.

We were the abject slaves of subject-matter.

Wherever educators met, the question was: What shall we teach?

Later our concern shifted.

We began to think that maybe the most important thing was not what we were teaching but how we were teaching it.

Interest shifted from the content of the curriculum to the methods of teaching, and a new era of educational experimentation was ushered in.

We found all sorts of new ways of teaching reading, spelling, arithmetic and so on.

The methodizers had stolen the field from the curriculum-carpenters.

The old-timers, as the methodizers thought, were but retail merchants of canned information.

But before long the methodizers found a new group treading on their heels.

The methodizers were ardent reformers, but the new group had set out to reform the reformers.

The new group was not interested in simply improving the merchandizing methods of the old education.

The real shift of concern, this new group said, should not be from subject matter to method, but from subject matter to student.

Education, this new group said, should not follow the logical lines of the teacher's organization of subject matter, but should follow the psychological lines of the student's intellectual adventures.

Curriculum-centered schools!

Method-centered schools!

Student-centered schools!

These three successive points of focus are about to be followed, I think, by a correlation of the best in each.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

SIMPLY PERFECT

Simple things are usually lovely. They are more likely to come to us unspoiled by the hands of the beautifier than are the ornate bits done by the sophisticated, wise ones.

I like to see the lines of a house sweep and stand, as though they defined a purpose and served it well. I do not like the confusion of gables and roofs and unexpected windows and porches. When the house speaks directly and says, "Here I am, all there is of me," I like it the better for its directness and simplicity.

Clothes that are cut in unusual fashions, decorated with pockets, false seams, many buttons and obvious designs, do not give me a feeling of comfort. Clothes ought first to suit your need and then be as beautiful as simplicity of material and line and cut can make them. The elaboration of the stylists, the straining to find something different, carries over into the result and affects the wearer.

We are all searching for peace. Beauty brings peace always. But beauty was ever simple and direct. She carries too much of truth within herself to be tricked and trimmed and tortured with detail. The simple, direct tone is beauty's own. It speaks clearly, but we prefer, at times, not to listen. The fact is that truth and beauty are so close to us, so much a part of daily living, that we pass them by in search for something out of the ordinary, something exceptional that has been reserved for us, and us alone.

I shall never forget the amazement of a young man, a high school senior, when somebody in the school referred to his grandfather as a fine man. He smiled incredulously. "He is my grandfather, you know."

"Yes. A fine man. An extraordinary man. I have never met one with a clearer vision, a finer perception of life. A rare man, is your grandfather."

The boy had lived with "Gran" all his life. He knew nothing about him. He wore plain clothes and talked plain language. He lived in a simple house and did the usual things. To be sure, his house had a certain dignified air in its simplicity. The orchard in the rear was one of the best; the flowers in the garden were the loveliest of their kind; the old place had an air. But it was grandfather's. That settled the matter. A new house, one of those in the development now, that would be something. And if "Gran" would only drive a big car—and look the part.

It is a fortunate thing that each generation has a share of "Grans." A few people cling to the beauty of simple living, simple things, simple thoughts. They struggle to hold them. Simplicity of living is not gained without a battle. The overdone thing is always easiest. Simplicity is gained by elimination, abstention, selection. That requires power, the understanding that is knowledge. It is intelligence at its best.

None is so weary as he who loses himself in a multiplicity of things and events and people. None is so serene, so at peace in his soul, as he who lays down his life in sweeps of simple lines, direct, purposeful, strong. Proportion is the essence of beauty. Simplicity is the spirit of beauty. How much overload are you carrying? How close to simplicity are you getting?

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

"LEST WE FORGET"—An item of local news recently appearing in The Register was of special interest to this writer whose reaction to the news therein contained was probably that of very many.

After business career of nearly 50 years in Santa Ana George A. Edgar is about to retire.

The writer is able to speak with some degree of knowledge as to Mr. Edgar's business methods and attitude toward his fellow man because for more than 20 years he was able closely to observe both.

One thing could be counted upon as absolutely sure and certain of him: the man in hard luck, the chap who, to use a common phrase, was "up against it" never applied to George Edgar for help and met with a refusal. The man who was without money or friends had at least enough money to tide him over his troubles and at least one friend after interviewing George Edgar.

This writer could, if he cared to, say more along this line, for, as it so happens, he himself was one of the many who was helped over what seemed to be an insurmountable business stile by George Edgar.

If it were possible for Santa Ana to have a "reunion" of all who, during the past 50 years, have been given a helping hand by this local business man whose retirement in August next is announced we'd sure have a crowd.

IN MEMORY OF WASHINGTON—Any year is a good year in which to plant a tree, but it seems particularly fitting that the American Tree Association in cooperation with the Washington Bicentennial commission, should engage in a campaign asking good citizens to plant trees between now and 1932 as individual tributes to the first great American's 200th anniversary.

George Washington personally planted more trees in his lifetime than he ever destroyed, the famous cherry-tree story to the contrary notwithstanding. His diary, personal letters and accounts contain hundreds of references to his love for trees, his knowledge of their value and worth.

It is hoped that 10,000,000 trees will be planted by individuals and civic clubs as a result of the tree planting campaign now on.

SOLOMON WAS RIGHT—Solomon, who was in his own proper person a pretty wise guy, wrote many years ago: "there is no new thing under the sun." The truth of Solomon's statement is demonstrated by the fact that the chemical institute of Frankfort university has analyzed brown and white face paints found in the vanity box of a Roman woman who lived some 1500 years ago, and finds that their composition is almost exactly the same as that of the cosmetics in use today. The only difference is that they contain particles of metal that have since been found to be harmful to the skin. The box was found in a grave of the old Roman settlement, Nida, near Frankfort.

Speaking of face paints here is something else from Solomon which seems quite appropos:

"Vanity of vanities all is vanity."
